YOUR CHALLENGE

At Expel, our SOC sees an increase in identity based attacks, cloud infrastructure incidents, and more, year-over-year.

It makes sense you'd be worried about keeping your organization safe, especially with limited resources.

Maybe your team is overwhelmed by alerts from your different attack surfaces and is searching for a managed detection and response (MDR) service to be your security team. Or maybe you have an MDR service that isn't taking the work off your plate like it promised (because most MDR programs take months to show results, just sending you endless alerts with no context and visibility into what your risks are).

No matter the reason, you need a managed security partner that understands your business and provides coverage across your endpoints, clouds, identities, email, and more to actually provide some relief— and, of course, security.

HOW WE HELP

At Expel, we provide 24/7/365 MDR services to take the day-to-day detection and response work off your team.

Our partnership is based on your needs. We can be hands-on, or can loop you in only when it's really necessary, with access to our SOC either way. We can serve as your security team, providing complete detection and response coverage across endpoints, cloud, email, or other telemetry sources.

We start with fast and tailored onboarding, so you see value quickly. And as your security program expands, our extensive portfolio of integrations and detections allow us to evolve with you—making it easy to get the exact coverage you need.

As Expel analyzes your data, you have full visibility into our process and security analysts' actions. And if you don't want to monitor each step, we'll only notify you when items need your attention (allowing you to focus on other work). You'll get peace of mind, more time back, and stronger protection and recommendations to improve your security program along the way.

At Expel, we're dedicated to protecting your organization for you, so that you have peace of mind. Here's how we do it:

Seamless onboarding and configuration
You can opt to either onboard almost completely independently, or take advantage of full-concierge style onboarding. Our team and tech ensure you are configured quickly.

World class detection and threat intelligence
We strengthen your security posture by adding Expel-written detections and optimize your existing detection strategy.

Unrivaled visibility, context, and personalization
We provide you with 100% transparency, so you have the option to either see every step of an investigation or to be notified only when we need your feedback—the choice is entirely yours.

Industry leading protection
Regardless of which metric matters most to you, our tech powered SOC delivers unheard-of results—like a 23 minute mean-time-to-respond—so you improve efficiency, get answers fast, and benefit from 24/7 access to our experts.

Proactive risk, resilience, and posture analysis
We constantly recommend what you can do to minimize your exposure, save money, and improve efficiency. We identify next steps so you can focus on your top security challenges.

WHAT OUR CUSTOMERS SAY

"I like that we're not on an island with the Expel team, and that they bring the full breadth of their knowledge on current trends and attack techniques into how they advise us. Again, with such a small team, we don't have the bandwidth to research emerging threats—but Expel does, and that information helps us prioritize changes in our strategy."
